

ABSTRACT

Disclosed is a display for a portable electronic apparatus including a first and second casings enclosing an outer circumference of a display unit, at least one first hole penetrating the outer circumference of the first casing, at least one fastening projection protruding from an inner wall of the second casing, and having at least a fastening hole corresponding to the first hole, and at least one screw having a screw part which is screw-coupled with the fastening hole by penetrating the first hole.